

California Truck Accident Lawyer

 californiainjuryaccidentlawyer.com/practice-areas/california-truck-accident-lawyer/

Auto accidents are never a small matter, but they are particularly severe when they involve commercial trucks. Collisions with semi-trucks, tractor-trailers, fuel tankers, 18 wheelers, and other massive trucks can result in serious injuries for victims, especially if the collision was between a truck and motorcyclist or pedestrian. In addition to pain and suffering, victims frequently experience exorbitant medical costs, damages to their vehicles and other property, and the loss of income due to injuries. Compensation is essential to protect such victims from bankruptcy.

If you or a loved one has been the victim of a trucking accident in California, Johnson Attorneys Group is committed to holding accountable those who are responsible. We strive to gain you the redress you deserve, ensuring that the perpetrator fully covers all the accident's costs. We charge zero initial fees, expecting payment only if we are successful in winning your case. Trucking accidents can be devastating, but with our assistance, we will make sure you have access to the best medical care, fight for your rights and secure the compensation you deserve for your pain and suffering. Call our California semi-truck accident lawyers for a free consultation at 800-235-6801.

How a California Semi-Truck Accident Lawyer Can Help

As a law firm that specializes in California trucking accidents, we offer a variety of services to ensure full compensation, such as:

Recording Recklessness: If a trucking accident is due to the driver's reckless or otherwise negligent behavior, the driver is responsible for your injuries and must pay compensation. Common examples of negligence include:

- Speeding, running traffic lights, or otherwise violating traffic laws
- Driving without sufficient experience or certification
- Operating trucks that are overloaded
- Driving a large or heavy truck on a road that is too small or narrow to operate it safely
- Failing to visit weigh stations
- Failing to account for the truck's blind spots when changing lanes
- Driving beyond the Federal shift limit
- Resuming driving after an insufficiently long break

A truck driver's most important duty is to keep pedestrians, motorists, and other drivers safe. If a trucker has failed to uphold this responsibility, we will ensure that they pay for the property damage, injuries, and death they caused.

Equipment Evaluations: In addition to the driver's behavior, we also examine trucks, trailers, and equipment for possible product liability. We look for evidence of problems with the breaks, engines, tires, trailer hitches, and any other devices that could have contributed to the accident. If we find evidence of a problem, we determine whether the driver, the carrier company, or the manufacturer is culpable, and then make sure that they are held accountable.

Data Diligence: The more evidence you can present of your losses and the other party's responsibility, the more likely you are to win compensation. Thus, from the moment you report your injury, we begin detailed recordkeeping, ensuring that no fact relevant to your case is overlooked.

Addressing Attorneys: Trucking companies and equipment manufacturers will do everything in their power to avoid paying compensation and have experienced legal teams to help them accomplish this. The Johnson Attorneys Group will handle all interactions with these professionals. We know how to maintain the upper hand against opposing legal teams.

Help Obtain the Best Healthcare: Although it is important to think about compensation, your primary concern after a truck accident should be to obtain the proper care for yourself or your loved one. Trucking accidents cause head trauma, burns, paralysis, and a myriad of serious medical problems. The sooner and more comprehensively you deal with these injuries, the better your chance of a full recovery. By keeping detailed records of your medical bills, lost wages, and all other associated costs, we ensure that you will receive compensation for the full price of your injuries. You can thus pursue the most effective treatments possible, secure in the knowledge that the cost will be covered.

Comprehensive Consultations: We provide clear consultations throughout the recovery and litigation process, ensuring that you know what you need to do for your claim to be successful. To organize a consultation, contact us today.

Truck Accident Resulting in Wrongful Death

The loss of a loved one to a trucking accident is tragic. The California truck accident lawyers at Johnson Attorneys Group fight to fully compensate you for the financial cost of your family members' death. Wrongful death claims require the family to prove the same facts as the deceased, had they survived and pursued a claim on their own. We employ the same methods that we use for injury cases, taking into account funeral costs, the loss of income, and punitive charges. You and your family can thus mourn in peace without worrying about your finances.

Get the Semi-Truck Accident Settlement You're Entitled – No Fees Unless We Win or Settle Your Case

Even with our support, the success of your case is still in your hands. By acting quickly and providing us as much information as possible, you lay the foundation for a strong case, increasing the chances of a successful settlement. As soon as the truck accident occurs and you are in a stable condition, contact us and begin filing the insurance paperwork. If possible given the nature of your injuries, take pictures of the accident site and ask any witnesses for their contact information. Save all of your bills related to the accident, especially out-of-pocket expenses that may otherwise be difficult to document.

The Johnson Attorneys Group promises to conduct a thorough, professional investigation into the trucking accident to determine how it occurred in detail. We then inform you of the likely value of your case and fight it until you get the rightful compensation. We provide regular updates on your California truck accident injury case, informing you of new developments and new options for settlement.

Don't pay the price of someone else's negligence. Contact us today and begin the fight for redress.